

All-in-All

Matter is defined as; the formless substratum of all things which exists only potentially and upon which form acts to produce realities. Matter is also; material substance that occupies space, has mass, and is composed predominantly of atoms consisting of protons, neutrons, and electrons, that constitute the observable Universe. World renowned physicist Stephen Hawking says in his book A Brief History of Time that “matter on the earth is mainly protons and neutrons, which in turn are made up of quarks.” Knowing that God is pure energy and the source of all things, it is safe to assume that based upon the laws of physics, that God is the nucleus which comprises all things as the All-in-All. Where pan = all and Theos = God. Hence, God is All and All is God.

In looking at this from a scientific view point, let's examine a few key elements of the material world in which we live. In the 19th century, John Dalton, through his work on stoichiometry, which is the calculation of quantitative (measurable) relationships of the reactants and products in a balanced chemical reaction, concluded that each element of nature was composed of a single, unique type of particle. Dalton and his contemporaries believed these were the fundamental particles of nature and thus named them atoms, after the Greek word “atomos” meaning “indivisible.” However, near the end of the century, physicists discovered that atoms were not, in fact, the fundamental particles of nature, but conglomerates of even smaller particles. Author William Henry describes this in his book Cloak of the Illuminati by saying, “21st century science tells us the fundamental building blocks of reality are vibrating “strings,” an idea that the ancients appear to have been familiar with.”

String theory is the idea that all matter is made out of tiny loops of vibrating string. Atoms are made from electrons and the nucleus which if split consists of many other particles. These particles are made of quarks. In string theory quarks and electrons are nothing but tiny loops of vibrating string. Simply put, Superstring theory says that all particles and forces are manifestations of different resonances of tiny one-dimensional strings or possibly membranes vibrating in ten dimensions. They're so small our science and technology cannot detect them. Superstring theory further postulates that there are two types of strings—strings with a clockwise vibration that lives in a 10-dimensional space and strings with a counter-clockwise vibration that live in 26-dimensional space.

Suffice it to say that all matter is nothing more than vibrating energy. Wallace D. Wattles says in his book The Science of Getting Rich that, “everything we see on earth is made from one original substance, out of which all things proceed.” High energy physics says that if we reduce matter down to its smallest particle regardless of what the thing is, we will find the same basic substance or subatomic particles. These particles are the basic units of chemistry and biology and the building blocks out of which we and everything around us are made. These particles are simply balls of pure energy vibrating at a particular speed or rate. The greater the atom count, the denser the object. If we speed up the rate at which the atoms are vibrating, the object becomes less dense causing it to evaporate. It would take volumes upon volumes of research to thoroughly explain the nature of particle physics and I'm not an expert on the subject but hopefully you get the picture.

We are all the same thing. Nothing that exists is without these fundamental molecules. The entire Universe is all the same stuff, mass, which consists of billions upon billions of minute quarks and subatomic particles that are simply balls of energy. As matter, we each have a unique partnership with all that is. Through our material make up, we along with everything else in creation are virtually one in the same. We carry within our being both negative and positive charges that create a balance holding us all together. These charges are electromagnetic pulses which generate electrical energy. We are electromagnetic force fields that influence our surroundings. The ability to consist of both positive and negative charges in our molecular structure is exemplified in our nature. We possess both negative and positive qualities that poise us much like the yin and yang principle of opposites and balance. Within the negative is a modicum of the positive and within the positive there is also a degree of the negative.

Being one with the All-in-All, we are the whole amount of all there is as the Alpha and the Omega of all things. In our essence we are everything that is, was and forever will be. There is no new matter in the universe. Everything that existed eons ago still exists within you and me. We are subservient to nothing as all is subservient to the divine will that animates our being, illumines our consciousness, and lives and moves and has it being as us. We are the Absolute perfectly embodying the nature of all things. We are the divine emanation that pulsates through our radiance as everything is affected by our charisma. We leave an everlasting impression on everything in our wake. Our sheer presence forces those in our company to raise their energy to meet that of our frequency. We are the All in everything because the All is in us is all that ever existed. We are the absolute and the epitome of all things. Emphatically, we are the All-in-All carrying out existence on this planet through our consciousness and awareness.
